

Town Council Gets Ready For Annual Election, Sept. 12

Commission Delays Action On Several Matters; Board Named

The Belle Glade town commission Wednesday night agreed to cooperate with the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce in requesting the State Road Department to complete the approaches to the new highway bridge crossing the Hillsborough Canal at Main Street. The recommendation also asked that the work be done as

A. Hubbell for desk space in the new Town Hall, when that structure is opened and occupied, was deferred until after the new council convenes in September. Upon a motion of Commissioner Harris, the occupation of the building by the full-time fireman was also deferred until after the municipal election.

Clerk C. A. Redmer read a telegram received Wednesday from PWA headquarters at Washington, D. C. The telegram read as follows: "The PWA advises that the final PWA requisition will clear in about one week. Expedite all possible."

Change orders, numbered 6 and 7, were approved by the council.

The change orders approve alterations in the construction of the new elevated water tank and the change of water connections at the base of the tank.

Thirteen interest coupons, amounting to $20 each, were burned in the presence of the commissioners and a statement signed to that effect. The coupons were issued on town bonds and had reached maturity.

Commissioner R. K. Harris made no objection, which failed to pass for lack of a second, to require the publication of a financial statement of the town every month. This, he said, would allow the public full information into the affairs of the town. It was brought out, in ensuing discussion, that the Mayor and two commissioners had already made plans to publish a complete financial statement of the town before the September 12 election.

Commissioner Bratley introduced a motion, which was accepted, to permit the town to purchase one 6-inch water meter and 4 connecting valves as requested by the Farm Security Administration for installation at the migratory labor camp. The value of the approximately $20 each. It was stated, and the water meter will cost about $350.

Leonard Stirling, Belle Glad restaurant owner, asked the council to prevent the establishment of cheap, temporary eating places as they are being set up in towns and villages to regularly established restaurants. His contention was supported by J. W. Pegram, deputy hotel commissioner, who has been in Belle Glad during the past few days. Clerk C. A. Redmer was instructed by the council to go to the towns and to prospective restaurant owners who have not applied for and se-

Commissioners looked over a lengthy report submitted by Karl Haddad, West Palm Beach engineer, who had just made a preliminary survey of streets and drainage in Belle Glade with a prospect of calling for a town election on a street bond improve-

The election board, to serve at the municipal election September 12, was named as follows:

12, was named as follows: G. I. Evans, clerk, Mrs. James Scullen, H. G. Weesler and Mrs. M. A. Murphy.

PISCATORIAL PATTTER

About Those Who Try To Outwit The Finny Tribe in Lake Okechobee and Other South Florida Fishing Spots

Roy Segree of Pahokee is the champion salt water fisherman this week. He and "Red" Doman were on the bridge at Jensen's bright and early one morning over the week end. "Red" didn't do so much fishing but Roy was in there outwitting 'em from early dawn until nine o'clock. His catch was the limit of salt water trout—nice big ones, too. And red snapper aplenty. Besides they were. Roy probably could have caught a few more but he had his share for the day and returned to Pahokee where he passed out several of the beauties to his friends.

Jensen seems to be the mecca for Lake Region folks over week ends. Last week end there were dozens of people from this section there. The Pitchford boys, who operate a camp and sell bait, were busy every minute of the week end. They furnish bait and tackle, a place to sleep, and fish to eat if you don't catch enough for a meal. Everything at nominal price. When you have a few hours to spare—just drive over Jensen way and call on those Pitchford boys—a whole half dozen of 'em—and you'll have a week end really worth while.

Have you noticed the "hang dog" look of many of our more virile fishermen's countenances? It seems the men of our community have been shamed by a meek woman, who caught a mind you, an 8 pound, 14 ounce fish! And that was done, ladies and gentlemen, in the presence of her husband who could do no better than supply his able wife with bait. Oh for shame!

Mrs. H. E. Jones did the splendid job and her husband hasn't uttered a word since, poor chap! The fish was entered in Betzner's contest Wednesday night after it had shrunk 6 ounces, originally weighing in at 9 pounds 4 ounces. Lake Trafford was the generous spot. The entry, by the way, pushed Dick Bowman and Spud Murphy, originally tied for second place with 8 pound, 12 ounce specimens, into third place, behind Mrs. Jones. Jim Henderson, a man, still leads the pack with his 9 pound heavyweight.

It seems to us that Mrs. Jones took Mr. Jones for a ride!

H. C. Warren, the lazy, comfortable chap, is still cruising about on Lake Okechobee in his queer contraption. The contraption, as explained last week, consists of an ordinary boat hooked on to a most extraordinary umbrella of the beach variety. Not only does the umbrella offer abundant shade but also motive power in event of breeze. Fishermen have reported that they recently noticed what appeared to be a heavy brown cloud appearing over the horizon. Scuttling quickly for shore to avoid the ominous disturbance they were somewhat surprised to find later that it was Warren and his "umbrella boat."

"Red" Gurkin is suffering in silence these days. Only a man of stout endurance could long exist with what poor "Red" has gone through! The story unfolds like this: "Red", in company of a gentleman too cruel and mean to make mention of his name, other than to explain he is, or was, instructor in Betzner's contest, set out for a quiet fishing expedition in time Cyprus. After the usual battle of wits with the finny tribe, Red hooked a gigantic black bass, fully 15 pounds, (according to "Red"). After playing him out, "Red" reeled him in the "instructor" waiting to grab him. The "instructor" fumbled with the fish, he muffed it and mused with it. It dropped from his shaking hands and took "Red's" rod and reel with it to David Jones' Jr., locker.

Carl Hayes, long absent from the list of prominent Glades fishermen, caught a hunk of glory last week, winning Betzner's weekly contest. From Blue Cypress Carl hauled an 8 pound, 6 ounce sample.

Sam Fleming and Spud Murphy, piscatorial artists par excellence, are hanging their heads in shame these days. Attempting to break into the win column before the annual prize deadline is reached, they rigged up and set out for Clewiston to do a little fishing. Their "dicker" failed and they turned around and came back with no fish! No courage.

Los Betzner warns all ambitious fishermen of the Glades that all fish entered in his contest, or any other Glades contest, must not be entered in other contests. No one fish in two contests, says Lou.

Fish stories are scarce this week on this side of Lake Okechobee. However, one appeared in last week's issue of The Clewiston News that is worthy of reprinting. Here it is:

G. M. Small, Clewiston peace justice had a most unusual fishing experience in the levee canal a short distance from Clewiston on Thursday afternoon while out with M. E. VonMach and daughters Sue and Elgonor.

Two or three bass of average size had been landed when suddenly Mr. Small started to reel in after a cast and the plug would not retrieve. At first he felt that he had snagged it on a rock or weeds but as the line began to run off the reel and the end of the line swung toward the center of the canal he began to sit up and take notice. His thought then was that he had hooked a large alligator, a shark (a few are reported in the lake) or a large turtle.

His line was only average size and he was afraid to exert too much pressure but as was definitely determined to land whatever it happened to be.

For more than two hours the battle raged with Mr. Small refusing all offers of assistance. A little headway would appear to be made as the line was reeled in and then again the line would run rapidly off the spool toward the center of the canal. Finally a terrific tug was made by Mr. Small and his rod broke. There was nothing to do but call for assistance and word was sent into Johnson's Fish Camp.

In a few minutes Mr. Johnson was on hand with a gaff and went to work with Mr. Small to land the fish. Bill was puzzled but it was definitely certain that it was no "gator on the end of the line. Finally determined to land the fish he gave the gaff to Mr. Small and told him to hold it poised ready to strike as soon as it broke the water. Meantime he laboriously hauled in on the object from the bottom of the canal.

Closer and closer it came to the surface and the occupants of the boat became tense. Mr. Small stood ready to strike. Suddenly there was a ripple of the water and the object came into view.

It was a big fish trap!

Health Report Is—

time local health departments, the report says.
Florida has fewer full-time local health departments (county health units) than any other Southern state, according to a map of 14 states printed in the August issue of Florida Health Notes, official publication of the State Board of Health. Florida has only 25 per cent of her counties with full-time local health services, as against 100 per cent organization for Alabama, Delaware, Maryland and South Carolina. 79 per cent for Arkansas, 76 per cent for North Carolina, 72 per cent for Kentucky, 65 per cent for West Virginia, 64 per cent for Louisiana, 59 per cent for Tennessee, 48 per cent for Mississippi, 46 per cent for Georgia, 31 per cent for Virginia.
The common belief that the large negro population is responsible for Florida's high disease and death rates is clarified many times in the report. Every section of the country, the health surveyers point out, has portions of the population that present special problems. The fact that these "problem groups" come into daily contact with the public as a whole, both in business or through the home, makes them a common responsibility which must be assumed and met by the entire population if they expect to be adequately protected against communicable diseases.

The summary report, prepared especially for public consumption, is a condensed version of the major report that goes to the public health officials, governmental officials and other professional personnel. It is directed to the public health officials of the State of Florida. In transmitting the summary to Dr. A. E. McCrory, State Health Officer and to John P. Ingle, Sr., Chairman of the State-Wide Public Health Committee, the American Public Health Association's field staff said "The findings of the survey will improve the health of the citizens of Florida only insofar as major recommendations are enthusiastically accepted by health officials and public leaders and are merged into an active long-range program. The effective use of the report, its searching analysis and its recommendations will depend upon the progressive interest and activity of the State-Wide Public Health Committee in presenting the facts to the people of Florida."

The report contains several maps of Florida showing per capita wealth distribution by counties, prevalence of hookworm by counties, malaria deaths by counties and the distribution of cases of the State-Wide Public Health Association. Sections into which the report is divided include "Scope of Study", "Important Factors Affecting Public Health Administration", "The Medical Profession and the Public Health", "Major Recommendations", "The Public Health in the Schools", "The Care of Crippled Children" and the American Legion's part in this program; generalities and conclusions.

Lottery Salesman Fined $250 Or Two Months In City Jail

Leo Day Posts $100 Bond On Car Registration Charge

Pahokee city hall has been unusually busy place several nights this week as cases of various nature have been tried before Leo Day, operator of a negro barroom in Pahokee, preferred charges against Patmolon Reed, Clifford in which it was stated that the officer took charge of an automobile in the colored section after the negro driver had been claimed ownership of the car.

Argument between opposing attorneys grew spirited at times when Attorney Durrance made an effort to establish that Day had been connected with underworld operations in Tampa before coming to Pahokee last fall. Day's attorney objected to Attorney Durrance's line of questioning, ownership of the car came in for its part of argument. Day claimed the car belonged to him. Attorney Durrance read into the records a telegram from state officials in Tallahassee which showed that the title had not been transferred to Day. Tuesday following the hearing state tag inspectors were in Pahokee and placed Day under bond in jail in the peace court for not having title transferred within the allotted time.

At the Monday night hearing Attorney Parkhill in his plea before council asked for the suspension of Officer Clifton. However, Elmore Cohen, who followed the Tampa lawyer, said that an apology from Mr. Clifton to Mr. Day before the council would be satisfactory to his client. The apology was not forthcoming and the council held its verdict in abeyance until the next regular meeting of that group.

On Wednesday night Willie Wallace, negro, was arraigned before Mayor John A. Dulaney on a charge of selling lottery tickets. Wallace had been free under bond furnished by Leo Day since Saturday night. The bond was in amount of $100. Attorney Parkhill, of Tampa, also represented the defendant.

Following testimony Mayor paid $250 or sixty days in jail. The months in jail. The negro went to jail following the trial when he was unable to pay the fine.

Pahokee Doctor Under Bond On Bigamy Charge

On Wednesday of this week County Solicitor W. E. Roebuck issued a capias for the arrest of Dr. H. M. Elarbee, Pahokee, on a charge of bigamy. The information charges the defendant with unlawfully marrying Ernestine Hindman on July 29, 1938, while he had a living wife, Alice L. Elarbee. The defendant made a $2,000 bond in the office of Sheriff W. H. Lawrence Wednesday afternoon and was released. The bond is returnable every 60 days. County records show that the defendant failed suit for divorce from Alice L. Elarbee on July 26, 1939 in circuit court.

The Pahokee chapter of the Woodmen of the World met ever first and third Thursday night in the Woodmen building in Canal Point. Meeting hours are 8 p. m. All Woodmen are urged to attend.

Conservation Head Visits I. W. Weeks

J. L. Billings, of Miami, chief conservation officer in the fourth congressional district for the Game and Fresh Water Fish commission, spent Monday in Pahokee conferring with I. W. Weeks, newly appointed commissioner. Messrs. Billings and Weeks spent several hours together planning conservation work in this district. A program of unbiased and unprejudiced was the outcome of the meeting according to a statement made by Mr. Weeks to a representative of this newspaper. It is the hope of Commissioner Weeks that the program as planned for this district will have far reaching effects in that conservation-minded citizens will take an active part in the work.

Room Bureaus Set Up For New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special).—Two agencies have been set up in New York City to insure World's Fair visitors getting living accommodations at a most reasonable price.

One is the Mayor's Official World's Fair Housing Bureau, Inc., with headquarters in the Chalmers Building, 122 East 42d Street, set up by Mayor La Guardia to locate rooms for visitors in private homes and dwellings.

The other is the Hotel Room Information Bureau of the Hotel Association of New York City, representing 180 hotels with a total capacity of 80,000 rooms. The bureau is at association headquarters, 221 West 57th Street.

Both agencies function without any charge to the visitor in finding him clean and comfortable accommodations at a price within his means. Rooms in private dwellings range in price from $1 per night per person upward, while the average per person is $1.50.

Every Western Union and Postal Telegraph office is equipped to handle requests for rooms in conjunction with the Housing Bureau's operation. Every policeman in New York City is familiar with the plan and is equipped to give visitors first hand information on methods of obtaining registered and sponsored rooms.

On making the application for a room the visitor pays a deposit of $5 cents per night per person for which he receives a receipt. The receipt may be presented to the landlord in lieu of cash as part payment for the room.

FLORIDA BOY MAKES GOOD ON BROADWAY—

The most beautiful exhibit at the Fair is the concourse of opinion of the thousands of visitors at the Florida Exhibit. Some pictured in from the patio, with the impressive tower in the distance that can be seen from any part of the Fair.

Carlton Carnegie, President of the General Tung Oil Company, of Gainesville, Lamont and New York City, the exhibit at the Florida Exhibit is attracting wide attention.

"The Florida Exhibit attracts many distinguished visitors; the last group was headed by Buddy Ebsen, star of the Broadway show 'Yokel Boy' who had a swell time. He is a Florida boy, born in Orlando and a graduate of the University of Florida at Gainesville. Mrs. Ebsen hails from Jacksonville.

Buddy's interest in the exhibit was profound and he spoke to his company and the large assembled crowd of the great state came, remarked that he has never forgotten his boyhood in Orlando and his school days at the University. He then gave an impromptu Florida speech, the crowd being better than any of California, and as he says, "That's saying something."

Amid applause Buddy made a circuit of the entire exhibit, and was most interested in the exhibit of the University of Florida, and the diorama of the Florida State College. He was particularly interested in the growing of Tung Trees in the state, saying that he had seen the Chase Grove at Lamont. As he passed around him for autographs, Buddy signed with and in most instances added a short phrase, "Go to Florida."

dangerous only to those who fail to take reasonable precautions," says a booklet entitled, "When the Wind Blows," prepared and distributed by the Florida Power and Light Company.

The booklet outlines the following steps to be taken in event of a hurricane approaching the mainland:

Shelter, First Aid Stations

First out when the nearest first aid station and storm shelter has been established. If you feel that your house is not secure and plan to go elsewhere, Go Early, take food for one day, blanket and pillow. Do not wait until the last minute to begin storm precautions.

Sick Persons

Arrangements are made by the American Red Cross to transport sick persons to places of safety. A great many require this assistance, and if you have a sick person to be moved, be sure to notify the American Red Cross as soon as storm warnings are issued.

Doors, Windows

Board up windows if you can do it securely. Have strong bracing for outside doors, particularly French doors, garage doors, etc. At the same time, make provision for opening a window or door on the lee side of the house to prevent a vacuum being formed by wind suction.

Loose Objects

Check up on everything around the house that might blow away or be blown loose. Garage cans, garden tools, awnings, etc., become weapons of destruction in hurricane winds. Store them indoors. Trim shrubs and tie them up to avoid damage.

Drinking Water

Before the storm, sterilize the bathtub and fill it with water; also fill all jug and bottles, etc., as much as service may be of temporary use. Even for some time after the service has been restored it is wise to drink only this water.

Public Safety, electric service will be suspended when winds reach dangerous strength. It will be restored as promptly as emergency crews can repair damage and check all lines for your safety. Keep away from loose wires before, during and after the storm.

Check your flashlight; have spare batteries and bulbs. Get a good lantern or candles before the storm are sold out. If emergency cooking facilities are necessary, be sure they are in working order. Remember that kerosene, gasoline and other fuels are dangerous if not properly handled.

Storm Lull

If the storm center passes directly over, there will be a lull in the wind, lasting from a few minutes to half an hour or more. Stay in a safe place. Make emergency repairs during the lull if necessary, but remember that the wind will return suddenly from the opposite direction, frequently with even greater violence. If this occurs, close the window which you previously opened and then open one on the opposite side.

Wildfires Would Protect Preserves

The West Palm Beach Wildlife League, until this week took steps to prevent logging of State lands to private interests and the exclusion of hunting from the areas. A committee was named to make investigations into the matter of saving virgin Everglades ground for future hunting in South Florida.

Resolutions will be circulated throughout Florida that reservations in State land leases that will permit hunting.

Tommy W. Weeks, newly appointed commissioner for the State game and fresh water fish department for this district, was unable to attend the meeting but was represented by John L. Billings, Miami, chief conservation officer.

Billings told the league his department would appreciate all cooperation possible from the sportsmen and that it would be the policy of the department to take into confidence the sportsmen's organizations of South Florida.
